They demand that you live by their rules.

"They" are Operation Save America, a group that's working toward restructuring American government so that their own interpretation of Biblical law applies to everybody. Unsatisfied with the Bush administration's assault on civil and human rights - because they think it doesn't go far enough - they're coming to Columbus in July to make their demand. They'll be targeting the whole city and anything they think stands in their way: from neighborhoods with gays, to access to healthcare, to symbols of secular government.

We're organizing in response to this attack. Help say "NO" to those who work to turn our country into something that more closely resembles a theocracy.

July 17 through 24 in Columbus - See website for details
